- Nature of learning m
- Learning and related concepts
- learning and maturation
- learning and teaching
- learning and imprinting

INTRODUCTION

What is learning and what is not? This unit starts with finding the answers of these questions while discussing the concept of learning. As a teacher you will come across questions like, how does learning take place? what are the guiding principles of learning? etc. Along with it, learning needs to be differentiated from various related concepts like, maturing, teaching, imprinting, etc. The present unit discusses the various dimension of learning which help a teacher to achieve a major goal of education i.e. to enhance learning. Discussion on various modes of learning will help you in planning learning experiences. In order to facilitate learning, an understanding of the concepts like transfer of learning, various learning styles and pace of learning are also very important to understand for a teacher. This unit will discuss all these in brief

WHAT IS LEARNING

What is learning? Answer to this question has been attempted by psychologists and educationists. Learning is not something that takes place within the boundaries of a classroom; rather it takes place anywhere, anytime and from anyone. Traditional Indian Literature has examples where people learnt from trees, mountains, rivers, insects, etc.

NATURE OF LEARNING

Learning occupies a very important place in our life. It provides a key to the structure of our personality and behaviour. Experience, direct or indirect, plays a very important and dominating role in moulding and shaping the behaviour of the individual from the very beginning. When a child touches a hot pan and gets burnt, she immediately withdraws her/his hand and learns to touch such vessels carefully. She concludes that if one touches a hot vessel, one gets burnt.

Day- 2 training (19/09/2018)

1. DIMENSIONS OF LEARNING

Dimensions of learning is a comprehensive model that uses what researchers and theorists know about learning to define the learning process. Their premise is that five types of thinking – i.e. five dimensions of learning- are essential to successful learning. These five dimensions of learning are:

- a) Attitudes and Perceptions
 - b) Acquire and Integrate Knowledge
 - c) Extend and Refine Knowledge
 - d) Use Knowledge Meaningfully
 - e) Habits of Mind
2. Learning as a psychological construct and social construct
 3. Learning styles

Day- 3 training (20/09/2018)

- Pace of learning
- Modes of learning
- learning of observation
- learning of imitation
- learning of trial and error
- learning of insight

Day- 4 training (21/09/2018)

INTRODUCTION

In COVID-19 situation, 500 million students have been affected. All schools and colleges have been shut down.

- Online learning has come to the rescue of these students in a virtual world.
- Does new media actually have better teaching standards when compared to classroom education?

This indeed has become a debatable topic over the past few months as every single thing has its own pros and cons, similarly online learning has its pros and cons Advantages of online learning Flexibility

The nuiabantage of online education is in desibility. A dent can adjust his study is a per hir own neuk One can study indoor or ound, in a mom while mavellingi also saves timu, energy or money of maling a specific destination no attain knowledge (Wider choice of courses and subjects Is online education, in free choose his own combinations of subjects regardless of the percentage toquined for king up that particular sulcet

One on even take up kombination as a science with psychology or commeres with mass common fearless of the face that impone might jalge them for the dices. Underused data fastdent to not has the tinienamalay down itongs while studying online, be can always save the page of cometh it in a documen and di

Une in radial class where the manner as cr from the brand vence the teacher in finished teaching can always refer to what he or she has studied previously line by simply clicking on the fury of the site

No language barriers

Serling education in mladen of the macular anges, there are mange barriers.

One is free learn new things in the sun mother unge as well.

They are not bound understand a particular latte in onder follow the text, they can read the estridenda in whichever langes they please, shis goes them self-pride and confidence in themselves

Drawbacks of online learning

No face to face interaction

- fble that we murrer what we setually see or mad when we do not find somebody actually explain out to A single pomeration error changes the rest meaning of the entire sentence and at said half and the improper information is even mon harmful than no information

Hem, face feraction is very important for proper caring

No time commitment

Since there is no one to inspect them studying they might just not complete their work and leave it unfinished further harming their own selves in the long run Higher dropout rate

- There will not be any particular mentor for the students to keep a track record on their progress and solve their doubts effectivels

At places, where online education is difficult to reach, they might just drop out of the schools

Technological challenges

- Online learning is helpful to only those students who have access to a proper internet connection and have devices such as laptop and computers

Students without it cannot rely on online learning

No regularity or discipline As the adems are five from the regulations and boundaries of a proper classnamemimamunt, la is quite obvious that the curriculum will not be mined the way should be

They might not study the materials in a soutinemommer and may start taking things lights. There ar high chances that the stalem might get disractal while learning online

Conclusion

As we are sure of the World Pandemic of Coins, the demand for online learning has surged up Many institutions who have proper resources have gone online us take classes. But in a country like India, where internet connection is not available everywhere, not everyone is benefited with such sources so that they can go digital.

There are many students who do not have a laptops, internet connection and money to even buy that It totally depends on one's personal opinion as to what is more convenient for him/her the old
