Safe anaesthetics practice Workshop

A work shop was conducted on Safe anaesthetics practice on 13th Oct 2019 at Index Medical College, Hospital and Research Centre, Malwanchal University from 10 am to 1 pm. A total 13 technical staff participated in the programme.

The speakers for the workshop were as follows:

- Risk and management —Dr. A. M. Nayyar Associate Prof, Department of Physiology
- Legal aspect – Dr. Rahul Tanwani Prof, Department of Surgery

The speaker explained the importance of safe anaesthetic practices and its benefits. They suggested that every patient should undergo a doctor anaesthetist-led preoperative evaluation, and every effort should be made to optimize the condition of the patient in the available time. It was also emphasized that there should be checklist to record the following:

- The condition of the patient.
- The patient has received relevant information on the anaesthetic procedure, including risk.
- General standards for Anaesthesia

1. Professional Status

The provision of anaesthesia is a vital component of basic health care and merits an appropriate share of the available resources. It is highly recommended that anaesthetists should be appropriately trained and accredited medical specialists with clinical and administrative autonomy.

2. Professional Organization

Anaesthetists should form appropriate organizations at local, regional, and national levels for the setting of standards of practice, supervision of training and continuing education with appropriate certification and accreditation, and general promotion of anaesthesia as an independent professional specialty..

3. Training, Certification and Accreditation

Adequate time and facilities should be available for professional training, both initial and continuing, to ensure that an adequate standard of knowledge, expertise, and practice is attained and maintained.

4. Records and Statistics

A record of the details and course of each anaesthetic should be made and preserved with the patient's medical record. This should include details of the pre-operative assessment and the post-operative course.

5. Workload

Dean
Index Medical College,
Hospital & R.C., INDORE

Registrar
Malwanchal University
Indore (M.P.)

A sufficient number of trained anaesthetists should be available so that individuals may practice to a high standard. Time should be allocated for professional development, administration, research, and teaching.

6. Personnel

An anaesthetist must be dedicated to each patient and be present throughout each anaesthetic (general, regional, or monitored sedation), and should be responsible for the, transport of the patient to the post-anaesthesia recovery facility and the transfer of care to appropriately trained personnel.

7. Facilities and Equipment

Appropriate equipment and facilities, adequate both in quantity and quality, should be present wherever anaesthesia and its recovery is undertaken.

Legal aspects and importance of proper documentation was also discussed ,and the role of supporting staff was brought forth.

Some of the key points include:

- Information to patients and consent.
- Documentation of all anaesthetics.
- Documentation of unexpected events.
- Following up unexpected incidents/problems/deaths.

Report - Medication Error Training Program

A Medication Error Training Program was organized on 12.10.2019 for the non-teaching staff at Index Medical College, Hospital and Research Centre, Malwanchal University from 10 am to 1 pm. A total 21 technical staff participated in the programme.

The speakers for the workshop were Dr.Suraj Tripathi Prof, Department of Pharmacology & Dr.Poonam Patel, Assoc Prof, Department of Pharmacology.

The modules of the workshop were:

- Cause of medication error
- Types of medication error

The speakers started the program with a detailed discussion on what is medication error and how do they occur. It was explained that a medication error is any preventable event that may cause or lead to inappropriate medication use or patient harm while the medication is in the control of the health care professional, patient, or consumer. The role of different bodies was also explained to the participants.

The various objectives of this workshop were:

- Understanding the problem of medication errors
- Understand latent and active failures that lead to medication error events.

Dean

- Utilize various data collection methods to identify medication-related risk.
- Perform system-based medication error analysis.
- Discuss the role and responsibilities of the medication safety officer or individual(s) responsible for medication safety oversight.
- Identify tools available to advance medication safety initiatives.
- Identify human error, at-risk behavior, and reckless behaviors.
- Develop error-reduction strategies.
- Measure the effectiveness of selected error-reduction strategies

This was followed by discussion on the meaning, and various cause of the medication error such as

- Ordering/prescribing
- Documenting
- Transcribing
- Dispensing
- Administering
- Monitoring

The speaker also talked about, types of medication error which can affect the condition of the patient such as:

- Prescribing
- Omission

 Dean

- Wrong time
- Unauthorized drug
- Improper dose
- Wrong dose prescription/wrong dose preparation
- Administration errors including the incorrect route of administration, giving the drug to the wrong patient, extra dose or wrong rate.
- Monitoring error such as failing to take into account patient liver and renal function, failing to document allergy or potential for drug interaction.
- Compliance error such as not following protocol or rules established for dispensing and prescribing medications.

This was followed by a discussion on serious harmful results of a medication error which includes death, life threatening situation, hospitalization, disability, birth defect.

Lastly, a discussion on tips to avoid medication errors like confusing eardrops and eye drops, cutting up pills, using the wrong spoon for measurements, using expired product, incorrect preparation or strength of the drug etc. It was also advised to avoid known allergens and consider known contraindications.

At the end of the session guidelines of medication error were concluded and this was followed by a Q/A session.

Report - Laboratory safety programme

A Laboratory Safety Training Program was organized on 05.10.2019 for the non-teaching staff at Index Medical College, Hospital and Research Centre, Malwanchal University from 10 am to 1 pm. A total 24 technical staff participated in the programme.

The speakers for the workshop were Dr. Shreya Nigoskar, Dept of Biochemistry & Dr. Deepti Agnihotri, Dept of Biochemistry.

The modules of the workshop were:

- Objectives on laboratory safety
- Laboratory inspection related tools and resources

A standard list of basic laboratory safety rules were explained, that must be followed in every laboratory that uses hazardous materials or processes. These basic rules provided behavior, hygiene, and safety information to avoid accidents in the laboratory. The consequences of not following lab rules were explained. It was said that:

- You endanger your own life and the lives of others in the lab.
- The experiment could get completely ruined
- This may lead to putting the lab at risk and might damage the equipments and thus prevent its further use.
- It may result in the staff members to lose their jobs

The various laboratory hazards were also brought forth where namely the following were explained:

- Fire/Explosions. In a laboratory, all chemicals and liquids should be treated as if they are as potent
- Thermal and Chemical Burns.
- Skin Absorption of Chemicals.
- Inhalation of Toxic Fumes.
- Cuts to the Skin

The purpose of the Laboratory Safety Program is to minimize the risk of injury or illness to laboratory workers by ensuring that they have the training, information and support needed to work safely in the laboratory.

The Laboratory Safety training program aimed at providing safety and compliance in all laboratory spaces to reduce the risk of injury and exposure, decrease the risk of property loss, lessen the likelihood of lost research, and minimize environmental damage. This program was focused on helping the staff to take all the essentials steps to ensure the safety of our trainees and other laboratory workers.

It was explained in detail about Laboratory safety practices that includes appropriate facilities and equipment, adequate training, personal protective equipment, chemical management, standard operating procedures, waste handling, signage, proper laboratory practices and safe working conditions.

At the end of the meeting "Laboratory Safety Manual" sheets were distributed to all participants; the contents of these documents discussed with each participants in an interactive session. The Laboratory Safety manual provides policies, procedures, training, guidance, and other information to assist research and teaching personnel to provide a safe and healthful environment in which to operate.

Report

NON TEACHING DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM: INFECTION CONTROL PRACTICES AND STANDARD PRECAUTIONS

Healthcare workers (HCWs) are at direct risk of exposure to blood and other body fluids during the course of their job. Consequently, they are at risk of infection of blood borne viruses including hepatitis B virus (HBV), hepatitis C virus (HCV), and human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). Occupational exposure to blood can result from percutaneous (needle stick or other sharps injury) and mucocutaneous injury (splash of blood or other body fluids into the eyes, nose, or mouth), or blood contact with non-intact skin. Needle stick injury (NSI) is the most common form of occupational exposure to blood which results in transmission of blood borne infection. Healthcare-associated infections (HAIs) have been reported to be a serious problem in the healthcare services as they are common causes of illness and mortality among hospitalized patients including HCWs.

Compliance with these standard precautions has been shown to reduce the risk of exposure to blood and body fluids. The term “standard precautions” is replacing “universal precautions”, as it expands the coverage of universal precautions by recognizing that anybody fluid may contain contagious and harmful microorganisms. The level of practice of universal precautions by HCWs may differ from one type of HCW to another. The differences in knowledge of universal precautions by HCWs may be influenced by their varying type of training. The absence of enabling environment in the health institution, such as a lack of constant running water or a shortage of personal protective equipment (PPE), would lead to poor compliance with universal precautions. It therefore, becomes importance to assess the level of compliance with universal precautions by the various types of HCWs (doctors, trained nurses, pharmacist, laboratory, scientist, other health workers, and domestic staff) who make direct contact with patients, and level of compliance by HCWs in the various types of health facilities.

27/12/19
Malwanchal University
Indore (M.P.)

Infection prevention and control refers to evidence-based practices and procedures that when applied consistently in health care setting, can prevent or reduce the risk of transmission of microorganisms to health care providers, patients, residents and visitors.

In view to improve infection control skill a training of non-teaching office staff of institute of dental science was organized for two days, starting from 16th December to 19th December, 2019 in which a total of 154 participants attended. The resource person for the training was Mr. Amit Raghuwanshi.

The training objectives and outcome expected are:

- Improving knowledge and compliance with infection control standard precautions
- Reduce the risk of transmission of microorganisms
- To understand the basics of hospital associated infections
- Cause and route of transmission
- To be train in transmission based precautions of infection control, contact droplets and airborne
- To be aware of importance of disinfections and sterilization
- To be aware of self – screening protocols

The participants learnt about serious blood borne pathogens, such as human immune deficiency virus (HIV) Hepatitis B (HBV) and Hepatitis C virus (HCV) that can be transmitted through unsafe infection control practices. The knowledge of management protocol helps in prevention and timely intervention. Various strategies were discussed during the entire course to inculcate and develop concept of infection control practices for training the future professionals keeping the above stated points in purview. It was all very well-received from the entire audience. Thus, in all the whole program ended up with a huge success providing guidelines for the conduct of further programs in the same direction.

Improving Energy Efficiency and Energy Conservation in Dental Hospital

TRAINING OBJECTIVE

To create Awareness regarding-

- Energy Conservation among Hospital Staff.
- Benefits Of Energy Efficiency.
- Steps Of Energy Conservation and Planning.
- Energy efficient practices.
- Energy Audit.

CONCEPT

Hospital energy conservation is very difficult to maintain because hospitals require very high environmental standards. It is imperative to implement Hospital energy saving strategies without sacrificing comfort for both patient and Hospital employees. Improving Energy Efficiency in hospital can be critical to reducing cost and carbon missions. This means that careful analysis and planning must be done to ensure greater energy efficiency while maintaining optimal condition and functionality. The training is designed to cover all aspects of energy efficient Hospital.

SCHEDULE

Date- 08/07/2019- 11/07/2019

Report

NON TEACHING DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM: IMPROVING ENERGY EFFICIENCY AND ENERGY CONSERVATION IN DENTAL HOSPITAL

Healthcare is one of the fastest growing sectors in India; the healthcare spending is set to double with each year. Hospitals are an inseparable part of the healthcare delivery system. In most hospitals, continuous operations and the latest equipment's require uninterrupted power supply for suitable functioning. As per the Ministry of Power, Government of India, there is a huge potential of energy savings in hospitals and healthcare institutions. Energy Audit studies conducted across different sectors including hospitals indicate huge energy saving potential. It has been observed that if energy conservation measures are adopted and coupled with enabling architectural design to harness natural light and ventilation, it should be possible to bring about a reduction of 10% in electricity consumption. Even this 10% reduction would imply a saving of up to INR 800 Million ever year, sufficient to cater to the cap-ex requirement of setting up a 150 bed tertiary care Hospital. Energy efficiency plays an essential role in accelerating clean energy transitions and achieving global climate and sustainability goals. This year focuses on the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic on energy efficiency and global energy markets. By analysing the inclusion and impacts of energy efficiency in stimulus packages, the report also highlights the role of efficiency in supporting sustainable recovery efforts around the world by creating jobs and stimulating spending while reducing greenhouse gas emissions. "Together with renewables, energy efficiency is one of the mainstays of global efforts to reach energy and climate goals. Improvements in energy efficiency can contribute around half of the reduction in energy-related greenhouse gas emissions that is required over the next two decades to put the world on a path to

of Registrar
Malwanchal University

meeting international energy and climate goals, according to IEA analysis. But short-term trends resulting from the Covid-19 crisis are slowing improvements in the energy intensity of the global economy, meaning that every unit of economic output uses more energy than it would do otherwise. This is mainly because energy-intensive industries, such as metals manufacturing and chemicals, appear to have been less severely affected by the crisis than other, less intensive parts of the economy.

Keeping this in mind the Non-teaching staff's professional development program titled "IMPROVING ENERGY EFFICIENCY AND ENERGY CONSERVATION IN DENTAL HOSPITAL" has been conducted successfully from 8th July to 11th July, 2019 at IMCHRC lecture hall for staffs of index institute of dental sciences. A total of 153 members participated in the program.

During the whole duration of the program key points for improving energy efficiency for professionals were deliberated with added discussions on the energy conservation.

The main topics of discussion were:

- Benefits of energy efficiency.
- Steps of energy conservation planning.
- Way to conserve energy.
- Alternative source of energy.
- Installation of alternative source of energy machinery like solar energy etc.
- Improving the energy efficiency of present equipments.

This program also highlighted the need for Green Hospitals tend to make maximum use of natural light and solar energy. The green buildings should be constructed in a specific angle of alignment with the sun which enhances the use of nature light.

Registrar
Malwanchal University
Indore (M.P.)

The major orientation of the building in north and south directions maximizes use of natural light. Shades on the south side block unwanted direct sunlight while reflecting light onto the ceiling of the interior. This further provides natural lighting and controls the internal environment of the hospital. This form of buildings aids in establishing a passive cooling system for the interiors. Windows must be located in such a manner so as to ensure ventilation, and increase access to natural light and reduce heat. Also, using simple operational measures like installing unitary air conditioning systems, sensors, etc also reduce the wastage of electricity in various departments of the hospitals. Augmenting these efforts with incorporation of solar power should also be encouraged.

The training was designed to cover all aspects of energy efficient hospital. As such, the whole program was received by the audience with full fervor and enthusiasm and ended with a great success, with avid participation.

Concept

Physical and chemical restraints are commonly used when a patient shows behavior that compromises his or her own safety and that also compromises the safety of others. Combative and violent patients are commonly encountered in the emergency department.

Hospital policies should be derived from the joint commissions and under the purview of patient self protection.

Physical restraints limit a patient's movement. Chemical restraints are any form of psychotropic medication used not to treat illness, but to intentionally limit a patient's behavior or movement. Environmental restraints covered a patient's mobility.

Modules

- I Define physical and chemical restraint drugs or chemical restraint
- II Consent for restraint
- III Chemical restraint is better than prolonged physical restraint.
- IV Describe patient rights regarding the uses of restraint
- V Discuss types of restraint, legal administrative forensic restraint and seclusion
- VI Identify danger associated from initiating monitoring and discontinuing restraint or seclusion
- VII Regular monitoring of patient during restraint
- VIII Identify the requirement for reporting a death related to restraint or seclusion
