Career Guidance Workshop - Courses and specializations after MBBS

- Clinical Research & Its Types

REPORT

A workshop titled 'Courses and specializations after MBBS – Clinical Research & Its Types' for final year MBBS students and interns was held on 15/09/2018, regarding their career guidance after their internship completion.

This workshop was done in the auditorium, at Index Medical College, Hospital & Research Centre, Indore. The resource persons for the workshop were Dr. Rahul Sahu, Dept. of Medicine & Dr. S. M. Holkar, Dept. of Medicine.

The modules of the workshop were:

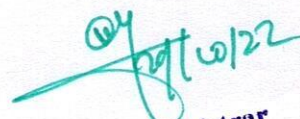

Module 1: Introduction to Clinical Research

Module 2: Types of Clinical Research

Module 3: Research designs

Module 3: Role of GCP and Ethics

This lecture was specially designed for students who were focused specifically on clinical research. This ever expanding field and its significance were discussed explaining how it brings forth new discoveries and dimensions that help in development of new treatments. Introduction to testing drugs, devices and patients were given.. Physicians, scientists, volunteers along with a team of people work tirelessly on a research protocol, sometimes for years to come up with acceptable results.

Next, the various types of clinical research were explained as follows:

- Treatment Research generally involves an intervention such as medication, psychotherapy, new devices, or new approaches to surgery or radiation therapy.
- Prevention Research looks for better ways to prevent disorders from developing or returning. Different kinds of prevention research may study medicines, vitamins, vaccines, minerals, or lifestyle changes.
- Diagnostic Research refers to the practice of looking for better ways to identify a particular disorder or condition.
- Screening Research aims to find the best ways to detect certain disorders or health conditions.
- Quality of Life Research explores ways to improve comfort and the quality of life for individuals with a chronic illness.
- Genetic studies aim to improve the prediction of disorders by identifying and understanding how genes and illnesses may be related. Research in this area may explore ways in which a person's genes make him or her more or less likely to develop a disorder. This may lead to development of tailor-made treatments based on a patient's genetic make-up.

- Epidemiological studies seek to identify the patterns, causes, and control of disorders in groups of people.

The speakers also discussed the various steps types of clinical research. The role of scientific and ethical committees was also brought forth. The budget segregation and allotment was also discussed.

Next, the speakers focused on production of quality data and its associated factors. Lastly, topics of special interest like the research the students were interested in were explained.

The following measures were also decided upon:

- Students were assigned with a mentor of their preferred stream for counseling and suggestion.
- Students interested in CROs/laboratory/clinic establishment were guided about regulatory norms and other details.
- They were given advice for legal aspects of Clinical research
- Students interested in Clinical Research were given details of different establishments (government/ private/ corporate) and told about requirement of such establishment.

Career Guidance Workshop - Courses and specializations after MBBS: Biomedical Engineering

REPORT

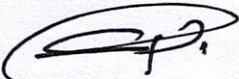

A workshop titled 'Courses and specializations after MBBS: Biomedical Engineering' for final year MBBS students and interns was held on 3/10/18, regarding their Career guidance after their internship completion.

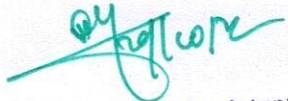

This workshop was done in the auditorium, at Index Medical College, Hospital & Research Centre, Indore. The resource persons for the workshop were Dr. P. Nyati, Dept. of Pharmacology & Dr. Poonam Patel, Dept. of Pharamacology.

Biomedical engineering has become one of the most enviable and sought-after career. It was explained that it is a rare combination of healthcare and engineering involving the application of engineering principles to create solutions for healthcare and generally concerns with the development and design of a medical product. Biomedical engineers not just create equipment and devices, but computer systems and software used in healthcare as well.

The resource person pointed out the main skills that a person needs to have to grow in this career:

- Analytical skills
- A good eye for design
- Attention to detail

- The ability to empathize with patients
- Communication Skills
- Team-working skills

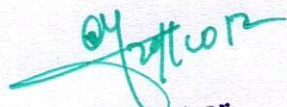

The various institutes offering this course were also mentioned by the speaker, namely institutes like:

- Indian Institute of Technology, Delhi
- Manipal Institute of Technology, Manipal
- Netaji Subhash Engineering College, Kolkata
- Indian Institute of Technology, Mumbai

Sommon Common Biomedical Engineering specializations were also discussed:

1. Bioinstrumentation - Designing and developing tools and equipment that aid in diagnosing and treating diseases.
2. Biomaterials – Designing and develop materials that are suitable for use within the human body.
3. Biomechanics - Designing and developing products that help with motion inside the body. Artificial heart valves and joint replacements are some of the important examples of biomedical products.
4. Clinical Engineering – Clinical engineers work alongside physicians, nurses, and other medical experts in the implementation and operation of the technologies.

B.Sc. Nursing 4th year student, B.Sc. Nursing 4th year student. From 10:00 am pretest was taken followed by a break of 15 minutes.

The first educative session was given by Dr. Reena Thakur, Professor, Index Nursing College on "An overview- Vocational Counseling". In the session she discussed about considerable variation in the terminologies that is used worldwide. Students understood that the process will help to know and understand themselves and world of life.

The second session of the day was on "Need and importance of Vocational Counseling" and the speaker was Dr. Jinu K. Rajan, Principal, Index Nursing College. The session pointed on the indispensability of career counseling and importance of bringing out one's interest to pursue their career and help gaining the right skill in today's competitive world. The session was followed by lunch break.

The afternoon session was started at 2:00 pm and the session was headed by Ms. Anjali Sisodiya, Lecturer, Index Nursing College on the topic "Skills in Nursing profession: Soft Skill". The session gives emphasis on the soft skills a nurse should possess e.g. empathy, networking, critical thinking, problem solving, decision making, confidence, leadership, ethical practice, team player & communication skills focusing on the interview technique and curriculum vitae writing etc. It was also pointed that in which skills recruiters give preference to the candidates i.e. who have the desired skills that can improve on job performance.

Outcome of the Program:

Delegates have gained knowledge regarding various opportunities of career after completion of B.Sc. nursing programme realizing the need and importance of career counseling. Student nurses gained ideas of scope of nursing (higher education), understood scope of nursing (job opportunities) and various competitive exams in India and in abroad. The program was a great success.
