Prescription Error Training Program

A Prescription Error Training Program was organized from 10.10.21 for the non-teaching staff at Index Medical College, Hospital and Research Centre, Malwanchal University from 10 am to 1 pm. It was conducted on zoom platform. A total 19 technical staff participated in the programme.

The speakers for the workshop were Dr. S.M Holkar Prof, Department of Medicine & Dr. Rahul Tanwani Prof, Department of Surgery.

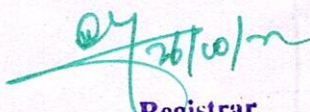

The modules for the workshop were

- Goal of Drug Therapy
- Types of prescription error
- Cause of prescription error
- Methods to minimizing prescription error

The speakers started the talk with a discussion on the goal of drug therapy is to improve a patient's quality of life. It is a known fact that medicine plays a vital role in drug therapy; however, the drug should be used in the right way knowing what medicine is right for a patient at the right dose for adequate periods as per clinical need. Inappropriate use of medicine wastes resources and diminishes the quality of patient's care. It was pointed out that the prescription errors are mainly of two types, errors of omission and errors of commission. Errors of omission mean prescription missing essential information, while errors of commission mean wrongly written information in the prescription. Considering this, the various causes of errors such as the prescriber, the patient, the team, the working environment, the task, the computer system, and the primary-secondary care interface was discussed

These were each then broken down to reveal various error-producing conditions: the prescriber's therapeutic training, drug knowledge and experience, knowledge of the patient, perception of risk, and their physical and emotional health; the patient's characteristics and the complexity of the individual clinical case; the working environment with its extensive workload, time pressures, and interruptions; and computer-related issues associated with mis-selecting drugs from electronic pick-lists and overriding alerts etc.

It was explained that the prescription is a legal document comprising instructions for medication by a licensed medical practitioner to the pharmacist. The speakers also highlighted key points for minimising prescription error such as:

- (1) Promoting educational actions on prudent prescribing directed to prescribers;
- (2) Incorporating computerized alert systems into clinical practice
- (3) Implementing the use of tools for guiding medication prescribing
- (4) Encouraging patient care by a multidisciplinary team, with the participation of a pharmacist.

Lastly, consequences of inappropriate prescribing includes wastage of the public economy, increased risk of toxicity, increased adverse drug reaction, increased antimicrobial resistance and decreased faith in the medical profession etc.

At the end of the workshop, Prescribing Guidelines were distributed to the participants. Few assignments were given to the team and a question and answer session was also carried out to ensure success of the event.

Prevention of Needle Stick Injury in Routine Practice

TRAINING OBJECTIVE

- Awareness Regarding Primary Pathogens Transmitted Through NSI.
- Factors Contributing to Elevated Risk.
- Role Of Vaccination.
- Protocol To Be Followed After Any Needle Stick or Sharp Injuries.
- Virus- Specific Post Exposure Management.

CONCEPT

Needle Stick Sharp Injuries are major occupational hazard among health Care professionals. Since needles are commonly used during dental procedures, staff is susceptible to injuries inflicted by contaminated needles and sharps objects.

Serious blood borne pathogens, such as Human Immune Deficiency Virus (HIV) Hepatitis B (HBV) and Hepatitis C virus (HCV) can be transmitted through injury. The knowledge of management protocols helps in prevention and timely intervention.

Report

NON TEACHING DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM: PREVENTION OF NEEDLE STICK INJURY IN ROUTINE PRACTICES

Healthcare workers (HCWs) are at direct risk of exposure to blood and other body fluids during the course of their job. Consequently, they are at risk of infection of blood borne viruses including hepatitis B virus (HBV), hepatitis C virus (HCV), and human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). Occupational exposure to blood can result from percutaneous (needle stick or other sharps injury) and mucocutaneous injury (splash of blood or other body fluids into the eyes, nose, or mouth), or blood contact with non-intact skin. Needle stick injury (NSI) is the most common form of occupational exposure to blood which results in transmission of blood borne infection. Healthcare-associated infections (HAIs) have been reported to be a serious problem in the healthcare services as they are common causes of illness and mortality among hospitalized patients including HCWs.

Compliance with these standard precautions has been shown to reduce the risk of exposure to blood and body fluids. The term “standard precautions” is replacing “universal precautions”, as it expands the coverage of universal precautions by recognizing that anybody fluid may contain contagious and harmful microorganisms. The Non-teaching staffs professional development program titled “PREVENTION OF NEEDLE STICK INJURY IN ROUTINE PRACTICES” has been conducted successfully from 11th October to 14th October, 2021 for the staffs of Index Institute of Dental Sciences, Indore at IMCHRC lecture hall.

A total of 155 members from the non-teaching staff participated in this program. The program highlighted and discussed various points expressing the importance of establishing a system aiming at supporting all the trainees, in an institutional classroom.

The key topics emphasised during the program were –

- Awareness regarding Primary Injury from needle
- Pathogens transmitted through NSI
- Factors Contributing to Elevated Risk of getting infected
- Role of Vaccination
- Protocol to be followed after any needle stick or sharp injuries
- Virus - Specific Post Exposure
- Management

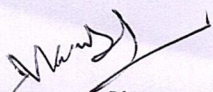

The participants learnt about serious blood borne pathogens, such as human immune deficiency virus (HIV) Hepatitis B (HBV) and Hepatitis C virus (HCV) that can be transmitted through needle stick injury. The knowledge of management protocol helps in prevention and timely intervention. Various strategies were discussed during the entire course to inculcate and develop concept of Needle stick injury for training the future professionals keeping the above stated points in purview. It was all very well-received from the entire audience. Thus, in all the

REPORT FOR FDP ON TIME MANAGEMENT

The Faculty Development Programme was scheduled between 17/08/2021 to 18/08/2021 For 3 hours per day, the programme was conducted by Ms. REKHA GOUR. This program was organized to enhance the knowledge and for the development of the faculties. The seminar was conducted in room with no.02 of IIP.

On first day she started her session on the topic:

1. Introduction on time management
2. Time management techniques
3. Time management Skills
4. Practicing time management at workplace

On first day she took her session on the topic introduction on time management. Time management is the act of someone planning or organizing their time between different activities to maximize their effectiveness. The principle of time management are a) Use waiting time productively b) Set your schedule realistically c) Be flexible d) Learn to delegate.

Then she took her session on the topic time management techniques. The time management techniques are:

Set reminders for all your tasks: whatever working we are doing we set the reminders or alarm to complete the task within that interval of time.

Create a daily planner: we have to set a plan for the whole day like what work we have to do.

Give each task a time limit the every work whatever we are doing must have a time limit like of 1 hr or 30 min according to the work.

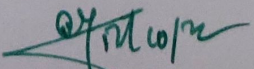

Block out distractions: In this she explained that while doing work we are facing many obstructions, so not to get distracted from the obstructions but continue or work.

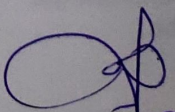

Establish routine: we have fixed our routine work.

Then she took her session on the topic time management Skills.

Time Management plays a very important role not only in organizations but also in our personal lives. Time Management skills includes:

Effective Planning: Plan your day well in advance. Prepare a To Do List or a "TASK PLAN".

Setting Goals and Objectives: In this she explained about that working without goals and targets in an organization would be similar to a situation where the captain of the flight loses his way in the air.

Setting Deadlines: In this she explained about that set deadlines for you and strive hard to complete tasks ahead of the deadlines. Do not wait for your superiors to ask you every time. Learn to take ownership of work.

Delegation of Responsibilities: Learn to say "NO" at workplace. Don't do everything on your own. The work which is unknown for us and if we accepted to do it will create a problem for you.

Prioritizing Tasks: Prioritize the tasks as per their importance and urgency. Know the difference between important and urgent work. You should able to identify which tasks should be done within a day, which all should be done within a month and so on. The work which is important should be done earlier.

Spending the right time on right activity: In this she explained about to develop the habit of doing the right thing at the right time. And to also keep some time separate for your personal calls or checking updates on social media.

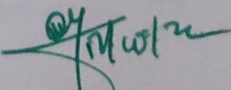

She then took her session on the topic practicing time management at workplace.

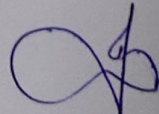

How to practice effective time management in organization? She explained all the given point which is very useful for us.

Know your targets well: Do not hesitate to speak to your Boss if targets are unrealistic and unachievable within the allocated time slot.

Organize yourself: Be very careful about your files, important documents, visiting cards, folders etc. Keep them at their proper places so that you do not waste half of your time in searching them.

Be loyal to your organization: In this she explained that to not work only when your superiors are around.
